

QUESTION TOWER

Instructions

---

- Questions have been stuck on many of the 48 blocks.
- For this activity remove one block each turn from the tower, without knocking the tower over.
- Remove the marked block first, then any block you like after this.
- Decide on a fun thing to do if a non-question block is removed, eg. 10 star jumps, or tell a joke, or do a yoga pose, or share a fun fact, or something else.
- As the question blocks are removed respond to them. You can utilise the activity tools or simply talk to each question.
- As each block is removed and responded to, you might like to begin lining them up domino style. When the tower falls, respond to the remaining fallen block questions before completing your domino chain and then knock them over.

First question for marked block

 Which adult do you spend most of the time talking or doing stuff with at the service? We'll call this person your worker.

 Have you learned anything new about your culture since coming here? If yes, what have you learned?

 What is the nicest thing that your worker has done for you?

 Could this service do anything to be better for children and families who are from your culture? If yes, can you share any ideas?

 Can you think of anything that your worker could do to be better at her/his job?

 Do you feel like you are welcome here? How come?

 What would make it easier for children and young people to be taken care of here?

 Is your worker interested in who you are as a person? What makes you think this?

 What would make it easier for children and young people to be listened to here?

 Would you like your worker to understand more about your cultural background? If so, what should she/he understand?

 What would you tell other children and young people about the things you like about this place?

The Most

What do you like to look at the most when you're here?

What do you like to smell the most when you are here?

What do you like to hear the most when you are here?

What do you like to eat the most when you are here?

What do your hands like to play with the most here?

If your legs took you to your favourite spot here, where would that be?

The Least

What do you not like to look at here?

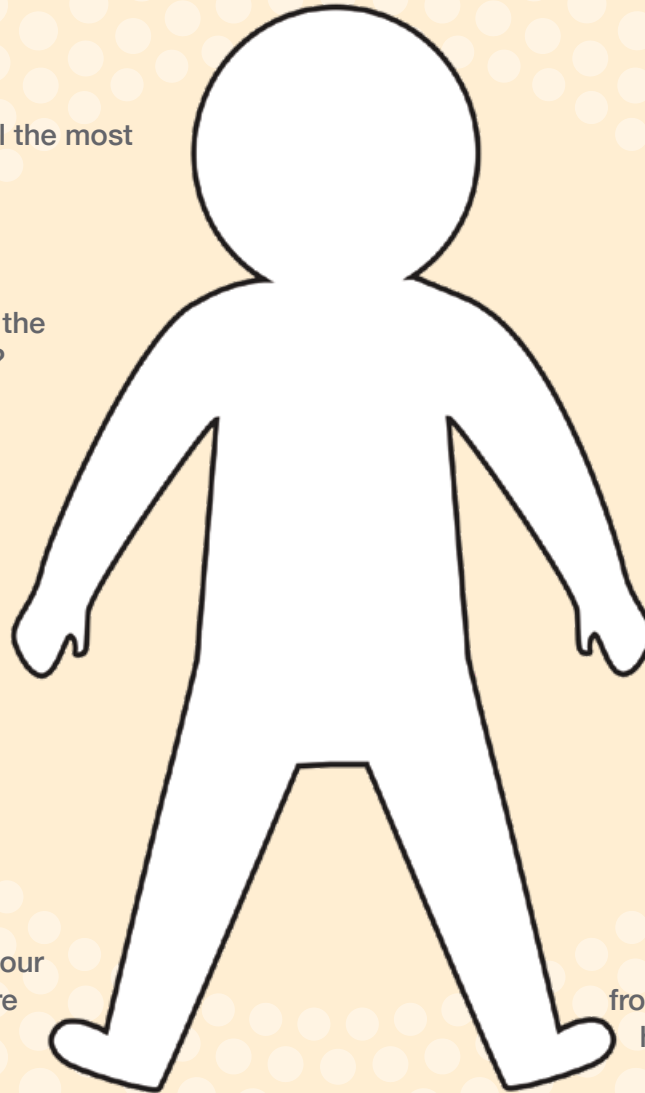

What do you not like to smell here?

What do you not like to hear here?

What do you not like to eat when you are here?

Is there anything here that your hands don't like to touch? If so what?

If your legs took you away from your least favourite spot here, where would that be?
